It's the final countdown for Macarthur Square's grand opening on 9 March

Sydney, 3 February 2017: The countdown has started towards 9 March, when Macarthur Square will throw open the doors of its redeveloped centre and confirm its status as the biggest shopping centre in south west Sydney.

The centre's current focus is putting the finishing touches on the new format David Jones store and completing the relocated new look Coles as the anchor tenant of the brand new western mall expansion.

The grand opening line up will be further enhanced with over 40 new specialty stores including a mix of fashion, services, and fresh food with alfresco and casual dining options.

Macarthur Square Centre Manager, Pedro Araujo, said that customers had embraced the new and international fashion brands that opened as part of the first stage just before Christmas but were now eagerly awaiting the next chapter.

"In the lead up to 9 March, we look forward to announcing our new retailers and confirming our program of activities and entertainment during opening weeks.

"We are very excited to bring the next generation of Macarthur Square to the region and look forward to celebrating with our customers," Pedro said.

To officially start the countdown, mural artist from Street Art Mural Australia (SAMA), Sam Shennan, completed a billboard on the corner of Gilchrist Drive and Kellicar Road at Macarthur Square.

SAMA, Australia's largest street art social venture, aims to support young artists by fostering social inclusion and advocating for street art's legitimacy. SAMA artists have painted three murals throughout the shopping centre during its redevelopment to provide an interesting and colourful distraction from the building works.
