Lendlease Participates in Cooperative Compliance Partnership with the Maryland Occupational Safety and Health

(Baltimore, Maryland, March 20, 2017) – Lendlease, one of the world’s largest development, property, infrastructure and construction management firms is pleased to announce that it has agreed to become a participant in the Cooperative Compliance Partnership (CCP) with the Maryland Occupational Safety and Health (MOSH) on the 414 Light Street project in Baltimore, Maryland. CCP participants are companies that have a safety and health program and work methods that are above industry standards.

“To become a CCP participant is a great honor for Lendlease. We are proud that our safety record and safety practices were recognized by MOSH,” said Steve Conley, Principal in Charge, Lendlease, Washington. “414 Light Street is a residential tower that will redefine the skyline of Baltimore and is an important economic project for the Inner Harbor,” commented Conley.

The 1.1-acre Light Street site on the corner of Light and Conway Streets in Baltimore, once home to the McCormick & Co. spice factory and more recently a parking lot, is in the process of housing the new 44-story residential tower. Once completed, the tower will not only be the tallest residential building in Baltimore, but also as far south as Washington D.C. and north to Philadelphia, PA. The residential tower is targeting a LEED-NC Silver rating upon project completion, will provide 394 units, six levels of above grade parking, 12,000 square feet of retail space, rooftop amenities including a pool, grilling area, fitness facility and pet park.
