

Macarthur Square has Autumn Winter fashion all wrapped up

Sydney, 31 May 2016: Macarthur Square has teamed up with those in the fashion know to give shoppers an insight into what the fashion police approve of this season.

The 'Like No Other' campaign is providing shoppers with the latest in fashion and lifestyle options, tips and trends. Renowned blogger Romy Frydman of Style Me Romy has provided the fashion conscious with a little inspiration and on-trend direction for the cooler months.

While stripes, leather, black and white, suede textures and almost every variation of the knit seem to be leading the way, Romy says that the season is really a play upon portions and fabric clashes - think an eclectic mix of boho meets global traveller.

According to Romy, the one 'can't live without' item for the current season is a trusty, great leather jacket, working with all looks, both dressed up and down.

"It's all about having plenty of comfy knits, as well as a great ankle boot for both at work and home – these pieces will always have you covered."

When posed the question of timeless or trend, Romy is a fan of the former.

"Always timeless, as classic statement pieces like blazers, denim and shirts will always get you through each season, regardless of trends," says Romy.

Romy's flare with threads is showcased in the current MCSQ magazine where she has joined forces with up and coming model, Tilly Smith, to create a stunning photoshoot showcasing the latest and key trends of the season.

The magazine also features a conversation with Australia's golden girl, Jessica Mauboy, Show and Tell's Brooke Bayes and three health and wellness experts who share their secrets, inspiring readers to live like no other.
