New York, 19 November 2014: The Americas Region of Lend Lease has received a score of 70 on the Human Rights Campaign Foundation's 2015 Corporate Equality Index (CEI), a national benchmarking survey and report on corporate policies and practices relating to lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) workplace equality. Lend Lease's score reflects a commitment to LGBT workplace equality, with respect to tangible policies, benefits, and practices.

"We are honored to be included on this year's CEI and extremely proud of our score on our first ever submission," said Gary Buechler, Head of Corporate Development and Capital Transactions, Chairman of Lend Lease's Diversity & Inclusion Council. "At Lend Lease our vision is to create the best places, and to do so we must empower all our people to be their best selves. We will remain diligent and proactive as we continue toward our goal of becoming a leader in diversity and inclusion within the real estate, architectural, engineering, and construction industries," remarked Buechler.

In its 2015 report the CEI rated a total of 972 businesses in the report, which evaluates LGBT-related policies and practices including non-discrimination workplace protections, domestic partner benefits, and public engagement with the LGBT community.
