Lendlease Named Leading Green Multi-Unit Residential Contractor in the United States

(New York, NY, August 25, 2016) Lendlease, one of the world's largest development, property, infrastructure and construction management firms, is pleased to announce that it has been named the top Green Multi-Unit Residential Contractor by Engineering News-Record (ENR).

Sustainability is ingrained in the fabric of the corporate culture at Lendlease, underpinning every job on which we are a part. Striving to apply global best practices and innovative, responsible environmental design initiatives, Lendlease is committed to promoting energy efficiency with an overall target of designing communities that are zero net water, waste and carbon neutral.

"We are extremely proud to be the top ranked multi-unit residential contractor. We believe that it's our responsibility to deliver environmental, social, and economic value where ever we have a presence," said Jeff Arfsten, Managing Director and Chief Operating Officer of Lendlease US Construction. "Sustainability is an integral part of our culture. Through design and investment in new technologies, we are delivering the next generation of sustainable property and infrastructure solutions."

To date, Lendlease has managed the construction of over 56 million square feet of LEED projects valued in excess of $19.2 billion throughout the United States. Lendlease's sustainable service offerings include green building design, construction, and refurbishment, detailed building and master plan design, strategic sustainability positioning, green building certification, renewable energy installations and green building investment management.
